Announcing the 2009 American Red Cross Hometown Heroes!

Chad Lowe – Adult Hero; Matthew Stanley – Education Hero;

Tammy Kirkpatrick – Public Safety Hero; Jack DeWeese – Workplace Hero and Taylor Barrett – Youth Hero. Congratulations to these Hometown Heroes who have demonstrated the values held by the American Red Cross and have prevented, prepared for, or responded to emergencies. We had some really wonderful nominations, as we have had in the past. We hope you will help us honor our Hometown Heroes March 24th.

Along with the excitement of Hometown Heroes, we are busy preparing for disasters. Grace United Methodist Church and other Red Cross volunteers have been trained for the Ready When the Time Comes (RWTC) program. RWTC is a program that provides volunteers from partner companies to be immediately ready to help in the time of a local, large-scale disaster. RWTC volunteers serve as “reserves” that can be called up when disaster response requires more than the normal corps of local volunteers.

This program helps the Red Cross build capacity to respond to local disasters, helps businesses build teamwork and employee morale, and helps communities become safer places to work and live. Call 740-335-3101 for more details.
